International Saints & Abolitionists

International Saints & Abolitionists (ISA) is a Christian organization committed to freedom from sex trafficking through prevention and equipping communities locally and globally through education, awareness, resources, and strategic partnerships.

What We Do

Freedom from sex trafficking through prevention.

Through education, awareness, resources, and strategic partnerships, ISA equips communities, both locally and globally, to recognize vulnerabilities, prevent exploitation, and advance freedom.

Mission

Equipping the saints to be abolitionists.

We believe the Church has a vital role in preventing sex trafficking and protecting the vulnerable. ISA equips individuals, churches, and communities with the knowledge, resources, and tools needed to recognize vulnerabilities, prevent exploitation, and advance freedom.

We envision a world where every person is protected from sexual exploitation and trafficking. Through education, awareness, collaboration, and action, we seek to build safer communities and advance freedom locally and globally.

Why Prevention Matters

Sex trafficking often begins long before exploitation occurs. Vulnerabilities such as isolation, trauma, online grooming, coercion, and unmet needs can place individuals at greater risk. While intervention and restoration are critical, prevention addresses exploitation before it starts.

By increasing awareness, strengthening communities, and equipping people with practical knowledge and resources, we can reduce vulnerabilities and help protect those most at risk.

We believe prevention is one of the most effective ways to combat sex trafficking and create lasting change.

Statement of Faith

ISA is a Christ-centered organization founded upon the truth of God's Word.

We believe in one God, eternally existing in three Persons: Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

We believe Jesus Christ is fully God and fully man. He lived a sinless life, died for our sins, rose bodily from the dead, ascended to heaven, and will return again in power and glory.

We believe the Holy Spirit indwells, guides, and empowers believers to live lives of faith, holiness, and obedience to God.

We believe the Bible is the inspired, trustworthy, and authoritative Word of God and serves as the foundation for faith and practice.

We believe all people are created in the image of God and possess inherent dignity, value, and worth.

Because human life is sacred, we are committed to treating every person with biblical love, compassion, and respect.

We believe salvation is found through faith in Jesus Christ alone. Through His death and resurrection, sinners may be forgiven, restored to God, and receive eternal life.

We believe the Church is called to proclaim the Gospel, make disciples, pursue holiness, defend the vulnerable, and demonstrate God's love in both word and action.

We believe God's design for marriage is the covenant union of one man and one woman and that sexual intimacy is to be expressed within that covenant relationship.

We believe Christ calls His followers to seek justice, love mercy, and walk humbly with God.

As an anti-trafficking organization, ISA is committed to protecting the vulnerable, preventing exploitation, and advancing freedom because every person bears the image of God.

How ISA Makes an Impact

Education: We develop educational resources that help individuals, families, churches, and communities understand trafficking risks, recognize warning signs, and strengthen prevention efforts.

Awareness: We raise awareness through presentations, campaigns, community outreach, digital content, and public engagement opportunities.

Training: We provide practical training that equips individuals and organizations to recognize vulnerabilities and respond effectively.

Resource Development: We create prevention-focused materials, guides, toolkits, and educational content designed to inform without exploiting and to equip communities for action.

Church Engagement: We partner with churches to help believers understand the realities of trafficking, protect the vulnerable, and live as modern-day abolitionists.

Global Collaboration: We seek opportunities to work alongside like-minded organizations, ministries, and leaders around the world to strengthen prevention efforts and advance freedom globally.

Freedom Partners & Global Collaboration

The fight against sex trafficking requires collaboration.

We believe the fight against sex trafficking is larger than any one organization. By partnering with churches, nonprofits, businesses, educators, community leaders, and other like-minded organizations, we strengthen prevention efforts, expand resources, and advance freedom together.

We seek opportunities to work alongside like-minded organizations, ministries, and leaders around the world to share resources, strengthen prevention efforts, and advance freedom across communities and nations.

Together, we can educate communities, protect the vulnerable, prevent exploitation, and advance the freedom everyone deserves.

Until all are free.
