

Pastor Roy's Sermon on Luke 20:1-26
(July 12, 2026)

—Below are questions from that lesson to further our understanding—

1. How does Jesus handle the challenge to His authority in this chapter?
2. What does the Parable of the Wicked Tenants teach about God's judgment and grace?
3. How does Jesus' response to paying taxes to Caesar influence your understanding of our dual citizenship (earthly and heavenly)?
4. What can we learn from Jesus' teaching about the resurrection?
5. In what ways does Jesus' warning against the teachers of the law challenge religious hypocrisy today?
6. How can we apply Jesus' handling of difficult questions and confrontations to our own lives?
7. How does the Parable of the Wicked Tenants speak to our responsibility as stewards of God's grace and gifts?
8. How do you reconcile earthly responsibilities (like paying taxes) and spiritual obligations in your life, as taught by Jesus?
9. How does Jesus' interaction with the Pharisees and Sadducees challenge us in our approach to understanding and interpreting Scripture?
10. In what ways does the warning against the teachers of the law prompt self-examination of our motivations and attitudes in religious practices?
11. How can Jesus' unflappable authority in the face of confrontation empower you in your personal and spiritual encounters?
12. What can the Parable of the Wicked Tenants teach us about receiving and responding to God's messengers today?
13. How can we balance our obligations to government authorities with our duties to God, as instructed by Jesus?
14. How can we guard against the kind of hypocrisy Jesus warned about among the teachers of the law?
