Sermon Series

The Torch and the Pail: Faith Without Fear and Reward

April 26 - May 31

What if we removed every transaction from our faith, every promise of reward, every threat of consequence? An ancient Sufi story tells of an angel carrying a torch to burn down the mansions of heaven and a pail to put out the fires of hell so that we might finally see who truly loves God. Not out of fear. Not to earn mercy. Just love, for love's sake. This series is an invitation to come home to a faith with no strings attached, where perfect love casts out fear, and God desires mercy, not sacrifice. What does it look like to simply love God for the sake of love itself? Come and let's explore this journey of faith together.

Sermon Reflection

Words for Meditation: "The final word is not failure. The final word is love."
- Frederick Buechner

Today's Questions

- When have you found yourself "returning to old nets" like Peter—retreating to what feels familiar after disappointment, grief, or failure?
- Jesus asks Peter, "Do you love me?" rather than, "Have you succeeded?" How does that change the way you think about faith?
- Who in your life right now might need to experience the kind of restoration, gentleness, or belonging that Jesus offers Peter beside the sea?
