Faith for the Rest of Us: Everything We Hoped Was True June 7-28

What if the more beautiful and spacious faith you were quietly hoping for is the one that was there all along? Faith for the Rest of Us is a four-week journey for doubters, dreamers, and the deconstructed—for anyone who’s wondered if there’s a Christianity with more room to breathe. Together, we’ll explore the God we see in Jesus, a reality without dividing lines, a belonging that leaves no one out, and a faith that’s less about believing and more about becoming.

Sermon Reflection

Words for Meditation: “God does not redeem us by subtracting parts of our story. God redeems us by transforming and integrating them.” – Rev. Mark Feldmeir

Today’s Questions

- What parts of your story have you been tempted to place “at the curb”?
- Where do you see signs that God is still bringing wholeness out of brokenness—in your life, in your relationships, or in the wider world?

Today’s Takeaways

1. Nothing lies _____ the reach of God’s _____.
2. God redeems not by _____ our stories, but by _____ them.
3. We are _____—and everything is _____.
