Works Based Religion

Matthew Allen, minister for the Cornerstone Church of Christ in Centerville (Dayton), Ohio says in a recent article, Lay the Toolbox Down . . .

Picture a factory floor at the end of a long shift. The quota is still posted on the wall. Be holy. Beat the sin. Pray harder. Feel more. Measure up. The orders keep coming and the numbers keep climbing – but somewhere along the line, somebody cut the power to the machines. So the workers do it by hand. They strain. They sweat. They fall behind. And the foreman just points back at the wall and says it again: try harder. That’s works-based religion. And its tentacles reach further than we like to admit.

His point is well taken. We often have been trained in the works-based religion. We must realize that we don’t serve God and others TO BE SAVED . . . we serve God and others because we ARE SAVED! The sin question for us has been settled. We live righteously because we have been called righteous already.

Paul reminds us, “The words ‘it was credited to him’ were written not for him alone, but also for us, to whom God will credit righteousness—for us who believe in him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead.” ~ Romans 4:23-24

Allen goes on to say, “So when you are weak, you are not disqualified. You are exactly the person He came to help. The Spirit also helps us in our weakness (Romans 8:26) . . . The answer is a God who carries what you cannot.”

Be of good cheer, Christ has overcome the world, He has saved us for Himself, and bids us do good works that God prepared in advance for us to do (Ephesians 2:10).

~ Harvey
