Worship Notes

...making our worship more meaningful & understandable

If you are tuning in to Cherry Creek, welcome and thank you for worshiping with us this Sunday morning.

Today is World Communion Sunday. Churches across denominations and cultures have set today aside to celebrate communion. This is quite significant, because in the act of Communion, we not only commune with God, we commune with one another. It is a sacred act we engage in together in community.

It's important, then, to remember, that we not only commune with those we see on a given Sunday. We commune with brothers and sisters all over the globe. May God give us a sense today of just how large and glorious His church truly is.

The Call to Worship and the Benediction. The Call to Worship and the Benediction are important traditions in the history of Christian worship. As the start and close of the service, they make an important point to us about worship: God gets the first and last word.

We understand the Call to Worship as God's call to us. If we are ever to have a

Prayer for the Week

O God, by your power may we, with all the saints, comprehend the breadth and length and height and depth of the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge,
so that we may be filled with your fullness. Amen.
(based on Ephesians 3:18-19) relationship with God, it is God who must first initiate to us. God alone can invite us and draw us in.

Likewise, in the Benediction, it is only by God's blessing (which is what a "benediction" is) and power are we able to go out into the world, to surrender our lives in daily worship, and to live out God's mission.

Giving In response to God's goodness, we are called to offer our whole selves—heart and mind, soul, and strength—in joyful adoration in our daily lives. One way we do that is through giving financially, which you can do in person after the service, by mail or online here: <https://cherrycreekpres.org/give>
