The King We Need

TUESDAY · DECEMBER 1
READ Isaiah 9:2-7

Isaiah spoke to people acquainted with uncertainty and fear. Into their darkness God promised a child whose reign would bring justice, righteousness, and peace without end. We often look for security in leaders, circumstances, or the hope that next year will be easier. None of those can carry the weight of our deepest need. Jesus can. He is the promised Son, the King whose rule is wise and whose faithfulness does not expire. Advent invites us to ask not simply, 'Will my situation improve?' but 'Who is ruling my heart?' Because Jesus has come, we have a hope bigger than political headlines, financial worries, or family tensions. His kingdom cannot be shaken.

REFLECT

What temporary source of security have you been asking to give you lasting hope?

PRAY

Prince of Peace, teach us to trust Your steady rule when life feels uncertain.
