1. Have you ever experienced a season when God seemed silent? What made that season particularly difficult, and how did it affect your relationship with Him?

2. Read Mark 4:35–38. Jesus was the One who told the disciples to cross the lake, yet they encountered a terrifying storm. How does this challenge the assumption that following Jesus should make life easier?

3. The disciples asked Jesus, "Teacher, don't you care that we're going to drown?" Why do you think suffering sometimes causes us to question God's love rather than simply His power? Have you ever wrestled with that question?

4. Read Mark 4:39–41. Jesus calmed the storm, but the disciples were left asking, "Who then is this?" What does this passage reveal about Jesus' identity, and why does knowing who He is matter when our circumstances don't change?

5. We said, "His presence is our peace in the storm." What is the difference between trusting God to change our circumstances and trusting God while we're still in those circumstances? What might that look like in your life right now?

6. The sermon ended with the words, "I'm broken, but I'm Yours." Is there a situation, disappointment, or unanswered prayer you've been trying to fix, control, or carry alone? What would it look like to surrender that to Jesus this week?
