The book of Jonah is more than a story about a reluctant prophet and a giant fish. It is a window into God's relentless, pursuing, compassionate heart—a heart that refuses to give up on His people, even when they run, resist, or rebel. In this series, Jonah: God's Heart for His People, we'll walk through the surprising ways God meets us in our obedience, our disobedience, our storms, and even our stubbornness. Each week will uncover a different angle of God's mercy at work:

- When God Says Go — how God calls ordinary people into extraordinary obedience
- When You Say No — the cost of running from God and the grace that still follows
- Wake-Up Calls from God — the storms God uses to get our attention
- When You Hit Bottom — discovering God's presence in the lowest places
- Starting Again — the beauty of second chances and restored purpose
- Changing the Culture Around You — how God uses His people to transform entire communities
- When Grace Feels Unfair — confronting our own hearts when God shows mercy to others
- Loving the People God Loves — aligning our compassion with God's compassion

Through Jonah's journey, we'll see our own: our hesitations, our fears, our pride, our need for grace, and our calling to love the world God loves. Ultimately, this series invites us to rediscover the God who pursues—not to punish, but to redeem; not to shame, but to restore; not just us, but the people we least expect.
