Discipleship Moment

Whenever I do object lessons or teach kids, I always have a plan A, a plan B, and a plan C because how kids respond is unpredictable. Parenting feels the same. But God is nothing like you or me. He doesn't need backup plans because His plan, His love, and His nature never change and never fail. So many kids today feel the sting of disappointment. Losing friends, a beloved pet, navigating a broken home, or watching the constant stream of bad news reminds them that the world is not as it should be. What we need to remember, and help our kids remember, is that in the book of Judges, people failed God and each other, but God never failed them. And Jesus never fails us. Even when things look bleak because of the sinful nature and sinful men, we have a sure and certain hope anchored in an unfailing God (Hebrews 6:19).
