

HE IS ABLE!

FASTING BASICS

"Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us..."

EPHESIANS 3:20

CONTENTS

01 What Is Fasting?

02 How Do I Get Started?

03 Is There Anything I Should Do to Prepare for a Fast?

04 Helpful Hints and Pointers for While I Am Fasting

05 Medical Reasons Not to Fast

06 What Are Some Alternatives to Full Food Fasting?

07 Suggested Resources

THIS GUIDE IS DESIGNED TO ADDRESS SOME OF THE MOST BASIC QUESTIONS REGARDING THE SPIRITUAL DISCIPLINE OF FOOD FASTING.*

WHAT IS FASTING?

Fasting is the spiritual discipline of restraining or abstaining from eating in order to gain something spiritually. What is central to the fast is the idea of humbling ourselves through self-denial. Fasting is a voluntary weakness.

Fasting is just one of many spiritual disciplines that are all considered part of a normal Christian experience. There are other ways to practice the discipline of self-denial and voluntary weakness that are not tied directly to food (Isaiah 58). This is important for those who have a medical limitation to food fasting. Please see the question on alternative forms of fasting and self-denial later in this guide for more information.

HOW DO I GET STARTED?

As has already been mentioned, if you choose to fast, fasting is a process, and it is wise to start with manageable lengths and progress from there. You might begin by skipping one meal in a day. If you choose this option it is wise to set a time frame for not eating, like 9:00 am to 6:00 pm. If you just say you are going to skip lunch and eat at 11:00 am and then eat again at 1:00 pm, you have in fact skipped lunch, but you may not have truly fasted!

The next level of intensity would be eating only one meal in a day (no snacking!). After that you might choose a 24-hour fast going from, say, 6:00 pm on Tuesday evening till 6:00 pm on Wednesday evening. In this way you have done a full 24 hours, but still had at least one meal each day.

The next level would be a full 36-hour fast. An example of this would be not eating from 6:00 pm on Wednesday evening until 6:00 am on Friday morning. In this instance you have gone a full waking day without eating.

You also always have the option of combining partial food fasting with varying lengths of time.

* Please read the Medical Disclaimer at the end of this Guide.

You will have much more success with regular fasting intervals than trying to do something only once or twice a year. As with any form of self-denial, there will be some discomfort. But if you start gradually and increase over time your body will learn how to adapt and you will be amazed at what you will be able to tolerate while continuing to fulfill your obligations. The objective is the ongoing practice of making ourselves available to God, not just getting one big "fasting trophy" and spending the rest of our life talking about it!

A SPECIAL NOTE

For those with physically, mentally, or emotionally strenuous jobs: All fasting is not equal! For a delivery driver who is lifting hundreds, if not thousands of pounds in a day, a 24-hour fast is more intense than for someone who is sitting at a desk most of the day. Some jobs are just more physically, mentally, or emotionally demanding than others and you must allow for this. Let the Holy Spirit show you what is right for you.

SECTION 03

IS THERE ANYTHING I SHOULD DO TO PREPARE FOR A FAST?

"Focus your mind on things above, not on things here on the earth."

COL. 3:2 (CJB)

Yes! There are some very important things to think about before you begin your fast.

DETERMINE YOUR PURPOSE OR MOTIVATION FOR THE FAST

This can be as simple and general as just wanting more of God, to something very specific like guidance for a particular question, and anything else in between.

DETERMINE THE KIND OF FAST

Answer questions like "How Long" and "What Type" of fast. Choosing a fast will partly depend on your occupation and normal physical demands. Avoid fasting over holidays or special family days and minimize unnecessary activities (shopping, errands, visiting, or entertainment). Think about how much additional time you will spend "feeding" your spirit with prayer, worship, fellowship, service, or Bible reading.

WRITE IT DOWN

Write down your reason(s) for the fast, the length and type of fast, and put it in your Bible. It is important to actually write these things out because when you are in the middle of a fast your reasons for doing it can become very hazy, and it is helpful to be able to look at your reason(s) and remember clearly why you started in the first place.

If you do not commit to a definite type of fast with a firm beginning and ending it will be too easy to wander away from your original intentions. It is good to have these things written out to strengthen your resolve when you are weak or wavering.

PHYSICALLY

- Consult your doctor if you have any physical limitations or are on any medications (see the list of those who should NOT food fast)
- Consider your scheduling and physical exercise limitations
- Avoid sugar, alcohol, and caffeine at least three days prior to your fast
- Resist having that "last big feast"

Many medical doctors are untrained in the area of fasting and may object to any kind of a full food fast. If you are in good health you may want to get a second opinion from a Christian doctor or nutritionist and proceed with caution.

"You have died with Christ and he has set you free from the evil powers of this world. So why do you keep on following rules of the world, such as, 'Don't handle, don't eat, don't touch.' Such rules are mere human teaching about things that are gone as soon as we use them. These rules may seem wise because they require strong devotion, humility and severe bodily discipline. But they have no effect when it comes to conquering a person's evil thoughts and desires."

SPIRITUALLY

- Ask the Holy Spirit to help you
- Spend some time in self-examination and confession
- Follow through on any restitution as led by the Holy Spirit
- Prepare some scriptures for meditation

SOCIALLY

- Consider who will need to know about your fast
- If you live with children, use the fast as a teaching example and explain simply (depending on their ages) what you are doing and why. This will help them to view fasting as a normal part of being a Christian, just like going to church
- It is wise to have someone praying for you, especially if you are just beginning or are attempting a long-term fast
- It is also helpful to have one or two people to whom you can be accountable during your fast
- Weigh the concerns of your loved ones and those in authority with the leading of the Holy Spirit
- Consider what you will say to those who will inevitably notice you are not eating ("I have other plans for lunch today..."). Do not seek it out, but don't be afraid to be honest with anyone if the subject becomes unavoidable. This is an open door for you to share about who God is in your life.
- Think about how you will handle the family mealtimes

For longer fasts, some Christian literature devoted to long-term fasting is recommended. Water-only fasting is not advised without advice from those who have participated in this kind of activity. It is best done under the supervision of those to whom you are spiritually accountable.

HELPFUL HINTS & POINTERS WHILE FASTING

"The thorny ground represents those who hear and accept the message, but all too quickly the message is crowded out by the cares and riches and pleasures of this life. And so they never grow into maturity."

LUKE 8:14 (NLT)

SOME PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL EFFECTS TO EXPECT

Be prepared for some temporary social, physical, and mental discomforts! Missing the social or mental pleasure of eating is usually as intense as the physical desire to eat.

- Irritability and impatience — early in the fast, as your body looks for an alternate source of energy. Practice patience! Over time your body comes to understand what to do and this tension subsides.
- Hunger pangs — the first three days are generally the worst. This is your body learning to make the switch from using the food in your digestive tract (which usually stays about three days) to burning stored fat.
- Afternoon difficulty — later in the day may prove more challenging both emotionally and physically than early in the day; plan on spending some of that time with the LORD.
- Feeling cold or tingling sensations — the body conserving its energy.

- Lightheadedness or dizziness from a sudden change in position — this should be minor and temporary.
- Body aches and/or headaches — can be a result of the body burning fatty tissue.
- Sleeplessness — built-in extra time with the LORD!
- Bad breath, increased body odor, a white coating on your tongue — a normal result of your body throwing off toxins stored in burned fat. Avoid gum or breath mints as these will stimulate digestive juices. Alfalfa tablets will help control bad breath.
- Headaches or stomach-aches — commonly associated with salt, sugar, or caffeine withdrawal. Eliminating these prior to the fast will help minimize these discomforts.
- Physical weakness — due to the body trying to conserve energy. Physical activity should be minimized, providing the perfect opportunity to spend more time in prayer and Bible reading.
- Lower back pain — may indicate you are not drinking enough water.
- Weight loss — only temporary; weight will return once you begin eating again.

DURING YOUR FAST

These are general suggestions only. Your body may react or tolerate things differently and you should go with what works best for you.

- Drink water (over three days without water is considered deadly)
- Drink natural (no sugar added) fruit and vegetable juices, diluted one-half to two-thirds
- Fruit juice (restorers) in the morning; vegetable juice/broth (builders) in the afternoon
- Avoid highly acidic juices (citrus, pineapple, tomato)
- Milk is considered a pure food — take it if your conscience allows for it

- For longer fasts, avoid drinks containing protein or fat, like soy or milk, as these "restart" the digestive processes
- Nutritionists debate the value of taking vitamins or food supplements during a fast; this would be a personal conviction
- Avoid caffeine — it is a stimulant and will work against the physical aspects of the fast

If you are doing a partial food fast it is possible you will have the opportunity to eat something during the fast that you are not sure is in the "OK to eat" category. These decisions are hard to make in the middle of a fast, and the best choice is to just pass on anything you are not sure about.

If you "blow it" and eat something you should not have eaten, don't give up! Just continue on and finish what you started. You will still be better off in the end, even if you did falter.

BREAKING YOUR FAST

"God — you are my God! I can't get enough of you! I've worked up such hunger and thirst for God, traveling across dry and weary deserts. So here I am in the place of worship, eyes open, drinking in your strength and glory."

PSALM 63:1-2 (THE MESSAGE)

When breaking shorter fasts (one to three days in duration) using common sense about what you choose to eat and how much you eat will generally be sufficient to bring you safely back to normal. For the first day avoid large meals, fatty foods, meats, and foods or drinks with high sugar content. Begin with light foods in small portions on the first day.

Breaking an extended fast (seven days or more) is as important as the fast itself. Your body's digestive system has been "asleep" and you will need to wake it gently and gradually. After a 40-day fast you should plan on at least three days of transition before returning to eating normal foods and quantities. The physical side effects of unwisely breaking a long-term fast can be quite severe.

Most recommend breaking the fast by gradually adding raw or steamed vegetables to your diet in increasing quantities, and moving gradually to fresh fruits. Eat smaller portions more frequently throughout the day. Take smaller bites than normal and chew your food more thoroughly than you may be used to.

For digestion to begin, your body must produce thousands of enzymes. This takes time, energy, and nutrients! Limit the variety of foods you eat in the first few days. Do not drink a lot of liquid during meals — this will dilute the digestive juices your body is creating to digest the food.

Carefully consider your schedule on the days you will be breaking a long-term fast. It is not unusual to experience some nausea, cramping, or diarrhea.

- Avoid beginning with starches such as potatoes, breads (except "Melba Toast"), rice, pasta, etc. — they swell in your digestive system and it is too easy to eat more than you should
- Avoid meats, fats, and dairy products for the first several days; begin introducing them slowly and in small amounts
- Be mentally ready to eat only small portions of simple foods on the first few days

MEDICAL REASONS NOT TO FAST

Any normally healthy adult can safely fast from one to seven days without incurring any significant, permanent health problems, but there are some people for whom this type of fasting should only be done under the supervision of their primary health care provider. There are others for whom a full food fast is not an option.

Some people who should NOT do full food fasting include:

- Persons who are physically too thin or emaciated
- Persons who are prone to anorexia, bulimia, or other behavioral disorders
- Persons with weakness or anemia
- Persons with tumors, bleeding ulcers, cancer, blood diseases, or heart disease
- Persons with chronic problems of the kidney, liver, lungs, heart, or other major organs
- Persons who take insulin for diabetes or who have hyperglycemia
- Persons recuperating from surgery or accidents
- Women who are pregnant or nursing

"God blesses you who are hungry now, for you will be satisfied."

LUKE 6:21 (NLT)

While full food fasting may be out of reach for some, the spiritual benefits of practicing self-denial are not. The fact is that very often those with medical conditions are already under some dietary restraint because of their medical condition. When we take the attitude of doing it for the Lord, and add the "feeding" part of the Christian fast, you have a very good long-term discipline of self-denial! But there are also other ways to practice self-denial that do not include food.

ALTERNATIVES TO FULL FOOD FASTING

There are many forms of voluntary weakness (self-denial). As an example, consider the following ways we sacrifice:

What We Sacrifice	In the Discipline of
Physical Strength	Food Fasting
Social / Relational Strength	Solitude
Financial Strength	Tithing and Giving
Strength to Accomplish (Time)	Prayer

SOME ALTERNATIVES TO A FULL FOOD FAST

- Partial food fasting mixed with varying lengths of abstinence
- Time restraints on eating (not before noon, not after 3:00 PM, etc.)
- Entertainment fasting (TV, movies, video, books, sports, eating out, etc.)
- Favorite pastimes (shopping, various recreations, computer, hobbies, etc.)

The partial food fast might be an option for some with medical limitations, but it is also an excellent way to begin exploring the grace of fasting. The partial food fast is modeled for us by Daniel who ate "no satisfying food" for three weeks (Daniel 10:3).

You can mix the partial food fast with varying lengths of time. A more severe restriction on what you allow yourself to eat might be combined with a shorter length of time for the fast; the more generous you are about what you can eat the longer period of time you can choose to abstain. For example, you might choose eating only fruits and vegetables for a week or two, or try eliminating your favorite foods for a month or more.

Restricting your eating by time of day is another option — eating only one meal a day or choosing to eat only during certain hours. An example of this might be not eating between 6:00 am and 6:00 pm, or only eating between 11:00 am to 1:00 pm, and practicing this for several days or more.

You can also augment a total abstinence fast (no solid food) with fruit juice or clear vegetable broth. A very small amount of juice (normally diluted by one half to two thirds) or broth can have a very dramatic effect on your energy level while fasting. Remember, we are engaged in trying to make ourselves more available to the Holy Spirit — not just trying to see how miserable we can make ourselves feel in the process!

As with any fast it is always wise to restrict, if not eliminate, all entertainments and spend that time in extra Bible reading, prayer, worship, fellowship, or service. Remember, in the Christian fast we are not just abstaining from food — but in place of eating we are feeding our spirit.

SUGGESTED RESOURCES & DISCLAIMER

MEDICAL DISCLAIMER

The content of this booklet is published only for the purposes of information, and is not intended to substitute for consultation with a medical professional before beginning a fast of any kind. Consult a doctor or medical professional before beginning a fast.

SUGGESTED RESOURCES

How to Fast

Bill Bright — www.billbright.com/howtofast/

A Hunger For God

John Piper

Celebration of Discipline

Richard J. Foster

Fasting For Spiritual Breakthrough

Elmer Towns

Roots and Fruits of Fasting

Mary Ruth Swope

The Spirit of the Disciplines: Understanding How God Changes Lives

Dallas Willard

 Most suggestions in this guide regarding nutrition and the physical reactions to fasting have been taken from the Bill Bright and Mary Ruth Swope resources listed above.*

"Restoring people back to their original, God-given design."