LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

When you were a child, did you ask God for a superpower? Many children want the power to turn invisible, fly, teleport, or move objects with their minds. There is a superpower available to you, and that is wisdom. Biblically, wisdom is the ability to see something's true value. Is this person trustworthy? Will money satisfy? Which course of action should I take when the rules do not apply? Wisdom is the capacity to cut through appearances and rightly answer such questions.

It is easy to see why wisdom is desirable: it can save you from destruction, hurt, betrayal, and bad choices. Of course, wisdom is not an automatic ticket out of pain to prosperity. Just ask Jesus, the wisest man who ever lived, and a man of sorrows. (Though, to be fair, this is because he took the consequences of our folly on himself! So, it's only a partial counterexample). Because wisdom keeps you living with the grain of reality, it can lead you to a life, not of comfort and ease, but of wholeness and peace.

The opposite of wisdom is folly, which is self-centered, desire-driven, at once impatient and procrastinatory, and unloving. If a fool could accurately express his condition, he would say, "I want what I want when I want it, and I will hurt you to get it." This posture is perfectly acceptable for a baby—their worlds revolve around themselves and their felt needs by design, and they painfully alert you to that fact through tortuous methods such as crying and sleep deprivation. That's good! But this attitude is described as folly in a child becoming morally responsible, who needs loving correction and instruction (Prov 22:15). Such folly becomes sinful when we refuse to let it go and grow up, maturing not only in stature but in character (Prov 1:22).

Wisdom is different from knowledge. You do not need relationships to get knowledge, only a device connected to the internet. Wisdom is different, it comes through relationships with God (Prov 1:7) and with godly people (Prov 13:20). And you'll never be wise if you don't honestly admit your foolishness—that is the glory of the gospel (1 Cor 1:24-31).
