LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

Have you ever heard of three-dimensional prayer? Do not worry, we are not getting philosophical here, or metaphysical, or any other "al" that somehow reminds us of StarTrek.

Considering the three dimensions of prayer is simply a good way to help shape or structure your prayer life. There are a lot of different "helps" that have, well, helped me over the years in praying: A.C.T.S. (adoration, confession, thanksgiving, supplication); asking God to work in me, through me, and around me; praying the alphabet as an acrostic; praying the Lord's Prayer. The three dimensions are things all of these have in common.

The first dimension is simply—consider the One to whom you are praying. Talk to God... about God. Hence, "Our Father, who art in heaven" (Matthew 6:9). Remembering the Addressee of your prayer shapes the prayer itself.

Secondly, consider the one praying (that's YOU; or "us" in cases of corporate prayer). Remembering who you are after just considering God's character might induce a bit of humility, as seen in Daniel's prayer—"we have sinned, done wrong, acted wickedly, rebelled, and turned away from your commands and ordinances" (Daniel 9:5). Thinking about yourself as the one praying might lead you to remember God's work in your own history, or be honest about your hopes—"Now Lord God of Israel, please confirm what you promised to your servant, my father David" (Solomon, in 1 Kings 8:26).

Lastly, the third dimension of prayer is to consider not the One you petition or the one doing the petitioning, but the people and things you are praying for. For example, how can a father pray for his children? Well, for starters, by thinking about them—not only the dangers they will face or the character issues you hope resolve well, but what delights them.

I hope you find that thinking about God and yourself and the people you pray for helps to shape your prayers, especially if you have trouble finding words in the moment! Trevor
