LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

Although sometimes it is difficult to settle on a topic for this article, this week it is not. On May 3, Eastern Hills honored nearly twenty graduates of high school (and the loved ones who spurred them on) during our annual Grad Sunday service. Not only did we set aside that day to commission the graduating seniors, you—the church—did an exceptional job supporting them, including attendance at the parent-hosted reception (thanks Dawn, Cindy, and everyone!) in the gym after service and attention to the students' displays of their accomplishments. You even gave them cards, which surprised more than one of them!

Thank you for loving this batch of students so well, and by extension supporting those students—past, present, and future—who comprise our youth ministry. Not every reception is so well attended, and we have learned some best practices from former years as well as surrendered those things that are outside of our control—the flukes of “Maycember.” It means so much to these students that their church family would come around them and cheer them on, like you did two Sundays ago. Maybe some of them learned for the first time that they don't just have a church, they have a church family!

If you would, please keep the youth in your prayers, especially as we head into summer, and especially these graduates: Zoie Allen, Kaiden Atkins, Naomi Ballard, Canaan Brazfield, Zane Conklin, Adrian Crawforth, Aiden Martinez, Cody Hanson, Kileigh Hoffman, Noah Jefferson, Emma Lahr, Mary Kelshaw, Tristan James Peck, Alyssa Portillos, Jonas Saiz, Jalene Salido, Joseph Yohannes Saltzman, Mati Wiest, Adrielle Williams, and Alyssa Yopez.

Some parents are already thinking ahead to next year's slideshow. I've received specific song requests, including a more general request for sad songs, because “I need to cry!” This intersection of parenting and pastoring is just precious. It's a beautiful thing to watch, and a wonderful thing to be part of.
