LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

Phil 2:3-4 "Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit. Rather, in humility value others above yourselves..."

Kerry and I are learning to recognize the moments God uses to strengthen our marriage. We do not see them as coincidence, but as providence. On a recent trip, God used a simple two-person kayak to give us a beautiful picture of loving communication.

It was our first time kayaking, so we were given a quick lesson: how to turn, slow down, back up, and stop. We were told the person in the back was the "captain" and would help steer, while the person in front would assist and, at times, take the lead. Kerry sat up front, and I took the back seat.

We quickly got the hang of it. We talked about our direction and destination. I would call out, "Left," "Right," or sometimes, "Hold your paddle." There were moments when Kerry needed to reset the bow of the kayak, so I had to lay down my paddle and let her lead. When we trusted each other, we stayed in rhythm.

We also watched others struggle because they were not communicating. Some went in circles, each person paddling against the other. When one was asked to hold their paddle, the response was, "Why?"—and they kept paddling until they drifted into the mangroves. There was no trust, only pride and the need to stay in control.

It made me think about marriage and the people we love. How is our communication? Do we speak with encouragement, humility, purpose, and grace? Do we trust each other enough to let the other person lead when God calls them to? Are we willing to "hold our paddle" so our spouse can help reset our direction?

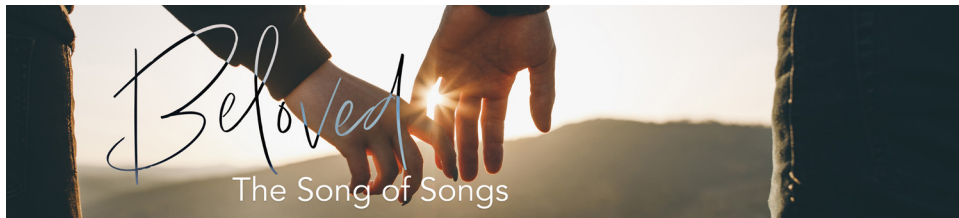

Or are we both paddling harder, arguing in circles, while pride pushes us further off course? A healthy marriage is not built by one person always being in control. It is built as two people learn to listen, trust, yield, and move together under Christ's leadership—One Flesh.
