LIFE

People helping people live out the unexpected love of Jesus every day.

This week in PrimeTime, we began a short series about simply—our relationship with God. There is no more important topic! This week, we discussed the “Fear of the Lord.”

Students are overwhelmed with the amount of commands it they must obey: Read the Bible, don't cuss, don't laugh at that joke, don't get mad at that person, do your homework, respect your teachers, quit stressing out your parents... It's helpful to give students one God-oriented category to encompass these demands. You don't have a million things to do, just one: fear the Lord.

“The Fear of the Lord” is a biblical category. Scripture calls it “the beginning of wisdom” (Prov 1:7). God Himself is “the Fear of Isaac” (Gen 31:42, 53). The wicked “do not fear God” (Eccl 8:13; cf. Rom 3:18). We should teach each other how to fear God (Ps 34:11).

What does it mean? Aaron raised question in a recent deacon ordination council, and between that and walking students through Proverbs, it has been on my mind a lot. Here's my best crack, and I welcome you filling in the gaps. Let's approach this concept using the head-heart-hands triad—aka, mind, heart, and will.

Fearing God has a mental component: knowing Him (Prov 2:5) and seeing everything else in His light. It also has an emotional component: reverential awe, in light of his kindness and severity (Ps 90:11). Finally, fearing God has a “volitional” component: is God the biggest factor in my decision-making?

But all that might be too heady to be helpful. Maybe these truths are the parts of the iceberg below the surface. How can we compact or distill these truths?

I'd say you can wrap this up in one of two ways. First, we could say that fearing God means living (and thinking, and feeling) like God is real (because He is). On the other hand, we could say fearing God means living to give Him the honor He deserves: “But if I am a father, where is my honor? And if I am a master, where is your fear of me?” (Mal 1:6). And that's a wonderful thing, because it means He is our Father, and we are His children! Trevor
