SPRING BREAK WORK

Why get sunburned on the beach with everyone else when you could serve God in Utah instead! This spring, we not only welcomed warmer weather, but also two student groups doing service projects for their spring break. High schoolers from Bob Jones Academy (SC) eagerly cleaned the station inside and out. College students from Frontier School of the Bible (WY) as well as a young lady from Texas (pictured above) also spent the week here. They helped out with station groundskeeping and also tried their hand at creating radio spots and recording weather forecasts. A few activities they also participated in were visiting the Utah Christian Research Center, evangelizing in Provo parks, and handing out Easter invitations for a local church. Thank you, students!

MORNING SHOW SIGNS OFF

Reflections from Heather Zander

It began quite unintentionally—Mike's hopping on the mic in the early morning hour, sleepy-headed Heather meandering into the studio to lend her support. The content was meager, the conversation insanely awkward. Yet our dear listening friends encouraged us to continue regardless of our own misgivings.

The Key Radio Morning Show began as a music show with commentary wedged between songs, evolved to mini-interviews with local pastors, then to deep, hour-long conversations with trusted local pastors and Bible teachers, and an occasional nationally-known scholar or apologist. We traveled to our listening areas, meeting our beloved listening friends face to face, lifting up one another up in prayer and encouraging one another to stand firm.

We've enjoyed hosting the show with others, eventually handing the mic to Corry Pensabene, a truly gifted communicator. Yet, regardless how the Morning Show evolved, one thing never changed: proclaiming the biblical gospel of Jesus Christ. In our hearts, it was of first importance, and no matter the guest, no matter the host, no matter the topic, the gospel was going to be proclaimed. It was our most profound joy to share God's saving grace with our listeners.

We always knew that the Morning Show came with an expiration date, but who's to say what will happen next? God has done great things in Key Radio, and we expect no less of Him now. Thank you, dear friends, for your encouragement, feedback, kind admonishments, and prayers. It was a journey we truly treasure.

Host Corry Pensabene was joined by Pastor Andy Erickson from Grace Bible Church in Springville for the final episode of the Key Radio Morning Show. You can watch their conversation on Good Friday and other recordings at youtube.com/@KeyRadio_Utah

A PRAYER TO SHARE

by Abbie Zander, Program Director

A core value at Key Radio is prayer. Charlotte Bechtel and I have been getting back into the habit of praying together for the station, our local churches, and our listeners. Not because we're so great at praying, but because God wants us to "pray without ceasing."

The other day, we asked God that He would send someone into the office who we could share the gospel with. Right after our "amen," a local man walked through the door to inspect our fire extinguishers. How amazing is it that God answered our prayers so quickly?!

After the inspection was finished, we got to talk with him and share Christ. He did say that he goes to an evangelical church, but it seemed like he didn't have a grasp on the biblical gospel. We offered him water and a Key Card with the clear gospel on the back and encouraged him to listen to Key Radio.

Praise God that He works to draw others to Himself! And what a great reminder for us to be ready and faithful to work His harvest. Please join us in praying for our friend, that he would have a right understanding of the good news and trust Christ as His Savior.

Have you prayed that God would use you to share Him with another? You might be surprised how He literally opens the door!

Cloudy skies... with a 100% chance of Beverly!
Recording 60-second forecasts was one of the ways students got to experience Key Radio's ministry.

PRESS DOWN!

Over the years local churches have utilized our banner and laser printing services for evangelism and community outreaches. We like to serve churches and pastors in this way; however, our banner press has been out of commission for a while! Our goal in fundraising for a new large format printer is $17,000. If you feel called to help, submit a gift through keyradio.org or mail a check to the address below with "Acct #64400." If you are giving online, please include the account number, or description, in the memo.
