

It is the goal of the OroNaz Finance Team to keep this church family updated on our financial blessing and challenges. Through this expanded Financial Connection we will share biblical teachings that direct the decisions made by the CLT and we hope you can find application to your life as well.

This month, we'll focus on living an intentional life.

In the course of Jesus's ministry, He taught a crowd regarding "The Cost of being a Disciple".

"And if you do not carry your own cross and follow me, you cannot be my disciple. But don't begin until you count the cost. For who would begin construction of a building without first calculating the cost to see if there is enough money to finish it?" Luke 14:27-28

Christ calls us to behave differently than those of this world, which means as followers of Christ what we do and how we act is often in stark contrast from our peers. Before beginning any task, disciples of Christ should consider what it will take to bring the task to fruition. Christ calls us to be intentional with every aspect of our lives even though it's not always easy to do so. Nonetheless, our example of taking deliberate care and time to follow His commands in all areas of life carries God's design of intentionality into a fallen world that is otherwise driven by self-serving instant gratification. Being intentional with our finances can be very challenging. These verses in Luke are instructing Christians to make proactive financial decisions rather than reactive choices. For example, utilizing a personal budget that is in line with Jesus' teaching promotes intentional gospel living. Using a personal budget is literally counting the cost of what it will take to get through every month and every year. Using a gospel centered personal budget is our way of exercising our intentional living for God's purposes above our own.

Several years ago, OroNaz slightly altered the way we budget. In years past, OroNaz created an annual budget that was very dependent on predicting the next year's income from tithes and offerings. As predicting the future can be rather difficult, the Finance team separated the OroNaz budget into two areas to alleviate the fluctuation in tithes and offerings. "Essential" line items are known costs that OroNaz pays every month, things like: salaries, mortgage payments, utilities, or Shares for Others. "Ministry/Others" line items are costs that can fluctuate throughout the year; ministry budgets, maintenance and building repair or reserve savings. Every month OroNaz pays all "Essential" budget items first and all funds above "Essentials" are then proportionally divided into "Ministry/Other" budgeted line items. This altered budgeted method alleviates the fluctuations that seem to occur throughout the year.

The end of August marks the halfway point in our church's financial calendar. OroNaz has been able to meet all the needs of our "Essential" budget items. Unfortunately, we have only been able to fund $20,945 of the requested $85,218 "Ministry/Other" budget items. The Finance Team and the CLT wants to proactively steward what the Lord has given us, that we may hear what every steward wants to hear: "Well done, good and faithful servant!" (Matthew 25:21)
