MISSION FOCUS

David & Beth Larson serving with ISI

In Beth's personal ministry there are two women to pray for. Before we left on our trip for Europe, Beth met M from a Muslim country who expressed great interest in learning the Bible. Beth met her again after returning and she said she would like to have a Bible so Beth will give one to her next time she comes. In one of Beth's one-on-one Bible studies, S from China, who has become increasingly interested in Christianity agreed to start praying that God would reveal himself to her. Pray that as M starts reading the Bible she would find the truth in Christ and pray S would seek God until she finds Him and He would draw her until she comes. David has become more involved in local ministry again at Cornell, as the local ministry is shorthanded for help. He is now mentoring or discipling three international men one-on-one, two of which just started. One is from Ghana, one from Eritrea and the third who is a new believer from Myanmar. Pray for wisdom as I re-engage more with local ministry and for spiritual growth and encouragement for each of these three young men. David and Beth traveled to Europe last month, visiting five countries in one month. God's hand was with them helping them to accomplish their objectives for the trip which included encouraging our ISI Europe staff and to help make ministry connections for them. We also had our last stop in Debrecen, Hungary, which was an exploratory visit and what we found was a wide-open opportunity for an ISI staff to come and minister to 8,000 international students as part of a team of chaplains with their own church right on campus. Pray for open doors for our new staff getting started in Europe, for the recruitment to ISI of the team leader in Milan, Italy and for God to raise up someone for the opportunity in Hungary.
