

SERVE: SERVING FAMILY

WEEK 4 | DAYS 22 - 27 ABIDE QUESTIONS

May 18th

As you reflect on God's faithfulness in your own life today, what is one specific glorious deed or wonder He has performed that you can you intentionally memorialize for your family to help them build their own foundation of trust in Him? How can you make memorializing God's moving in your life a normal act?

May 19th

As you seek to "train up" your child, in what specific area, such as honesty, patience, or a heart of service, is God calling you to first model yourself? How can you make your disciplined instruction a natural overflow of your own modeled character rather than just a lecture (make a list for yourself)?

May 20th

In what specific area of your home life has your correction become more about managing behavior than it is about mentoring the heart? How can orienting your daily life on Christ and His patience with you help provide the wisdom you need to "bring them up" in biblical truth and build their trust and faith in Him?

May 21st

Can you identify an area of your relationship with your parents (or in-laws) that you are currently struggling to show them "high esteem?" How can reflecting on Christ's gracious love toward you, despite your own flaws, enable you to offer them respect and honor as a worshipful response to God?

May 22nd

In what area of providing for your relatives, whether it is physical provision, emotional presence, or spiritual protection, are you currently being idle or selfish in? How does remembering Christ's constant provision for you empower you to step up and care for a specific need in your household?

May 23rd

In which of your family interactions or roles are you most likely to forget the Lord's graciousness with you, acting out of your own frustration instead of modeling Christ? List some practical ways you can realign your heart and actions to "be" Christ within that role to ensure you bring Him glory within it.
