

What if the things we already have could help bring people together?

This Sunday, we're continuing our CONNECTING series with "Connected by Common Possessions." We'll explore an inspiring and surprisingly dramatic story from the early church about generosity, honesty, and a community learning to care for one another in practical ways.

This isn't simply a message about money. It's about our tables, time, abilities, homes, attention, and everything else God has placed in our hands. Connected people hold what they have with open hands and honest hearts.

Join us this Sunday (10:30am) as we imagine what could happen when our resources become bridges that welcome people, strengthen relationships, and meet real needs.

We'd love to see you then!
