

The Holy Spirit (Continued)

Miracles Today?

In our understanding, there are no present-day miracles from God. First, we saw last week that miracles were designed to function as signs. This was the purpose of the miracle (OT and NT).

God's redemptive work was evident as confirmed by the miracle. Since we have no new redemptive work today, there is no need for miracles. Simple. The very purpose of miracles argues against their continuation.

Laying On Of Apostles' Hands

Next, only the Apostles were said to be performing miracles. (Acts 2:43; 3:6; 4:33; 5:12-16.) So how did a non-apostle have miraculous powers? Answer: by the laying on of the Apostles' hands. Consider Acts 6:1-6, where the Apostles laid hands on the servants. Two of the seven servants then worked miracles. (Stephan Acts 6:8, Philip Acts 8:6-7, 13)

There is a clear and necessary connection of the Apostles laying on of hands to pass on miracles to non-Apostles. People were being converted to Christ. They all received the Holy Spirit as promised at baptism. (Acts 2:38-39.) But none received the Holy Spirit as a supernatural gift.

Even Simon the sorcerer saw that gifts were bestowed by laying on of the Apostles' hands. He then wanted to purchase this ability of passing on gifts. (Acts 8:14-24.)

Therefore, with no Apostles today, there are no miraculous gifts as seen in the Bible.
