Everyone has questions. Some are easier than others. Some, quite frankly, don't have answers. As the world looks at the church, there are many questions that it has for the church. Some of them are questions that we grapple with ourselves, while others may surprise us. How do we faithfully give answers to the questions that the world is asking of us in a way that is faithful to God's Word and gives winsome witness to the world while not appearing tone deaf to what is happening in our world? During this study, we will explore some of the great questions that the world is asking of the church and how we might respond in a way that is both helpful and hopeful. This is a six-week course, RSVP using the QR code. Email Kevin.austin@risensavioraz.org with any questions.
