Impact Kids Fall 2026 Leader Devo

November 18, 2026- Disciples know truth is worth sharing.

Bible-Acts 16- God reveals truth to us.

Disciples make Jesus part of every day.

Read: Acts 17

Highlight: Acts 17: 30-31

Reflect: In Acts 17, Paul continued his missionary journey, boldly sharing the good news of Jesus in Thessalonica, Berea, and Athens. Some people believed his message, while others rejected it and stirred up opposition. The Bereans were commended because they eagerly listened to Paul's teaching and carefully examined the Scriptures to see if what he said was true. In Athens, Paul addressed people who worshiped many idols and pointed them to the one true God, explaining that God created all people, desires a relationship with them, and has revealed Himself through Jesus Christ, whom He raised from the dead.

- Am I seeking truth like the Bereans? They listened with open hearts and tested everything against God's Word. How regularly do I examine Scripture for myself?
- What idols compete for my devotion? The Athenians worshiped many things besides God. What people, possessions, achievements, or distractions might be taking God's place in my life?
- Am I ready to share my faith where God has placed me? Paul courageously met people where they were and pointed them to Jesus. How can I lovingly and clearly share the hope of Christ with others this week?

Pray: Jesus, thank You for the truth we find in You and Your Word. Help each of us to desire Your truth over anything else. Give us a hunger for Your Word and truth in our lives and all those around us. Give us strength to stand up when we need to and the resolve to keep standing even if we feel alone. We love you and desire to follow You with everything. Amen!

Connect: Paul was willing to tell people about Jesus wherever he went, even when it was difficult or unpopular. He trusted God and looked for opportunities to help others know the truth about Jesus. The Bereans also showed the importance of learning God's Word and making sure what they believed was true.

As you lead kids this week, remember that you have the privilege of helping them discover God's truth. Whether you're teaching a Bible story, listening to a child share about their week, or encouraging a family, you are planting seeds that can help kids know and follow Jesus. Ask God to help you be faithful like Paul—sharing His truth with love, courage, and confidence—and to help your kids grow a desire to know God's Word for themselves.
