Group Guide

A PBJs Group of 3~5 people meets regularly to discuss their Bible readings, encouraging one another to stay up-to-date and to be obedient to the Lord's voice as revealed through Scripture.

- How do I sign up? — Everyone, in a group or reading on their own, should register at lfwired.org/hub or lfwired.org/pbjs.
- Who will be in my group? — You can start your own group, or we will assign you to a group.
- How often will we meet? — Ideally, you'll meet in-person each week, but a text or Zoom group can also work. Every other week is also a good option.
- Can I do PBJs without a group? — Yes, but we highly recommend forming a group to get the full benefit.
- Is my group closed, or can others join later? — Invite as many as you like, but if your group grows larger than five, you should launch a new group.
- What curriculum will we use? — Use the five questions from your daily reflection.
- Who will lead my group? — Rotate facilitating the discussion around the five questions.
- Will we report attendance? — No.
- Since we don't report attendance, why do I need to register? — We will send occasional reminders and more to participants.
- What's next after PBJs in 2027? — Continue using the five questions for your devotional time, and invite others to join you, especially someone who doesn't know the Lord. This is a great discipleship tool! By becoming proficient at PBJs, you are learning how to make disciples who make disciples!
