Too Many Pumpkins by Linda White tells the story of Rebecca Estelle, who is surprised when a pumpkin accidentally grows in her garden. Soon, her yard is overflowing with pumpkins, and she discovers creative ways to use them while sharing her harvest with others and finding joy in her unexpected abundance.

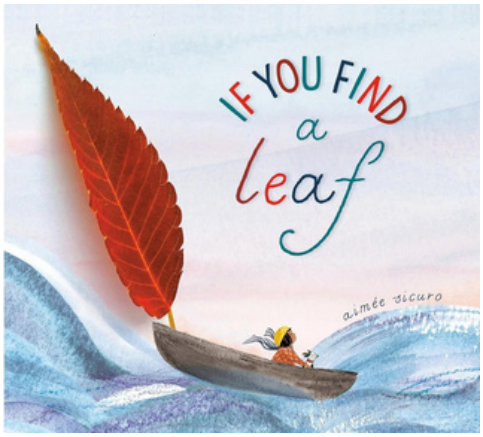

The Pumpkin Thief by Alice Hemming follows Squirrel as he tries to solve the mystery of his pumpkins disappearing from the garden one by one. As he follows clues and jumps to conclusions, Squirrel discovers that there is no thief at all and learns that things are not always what they seem.

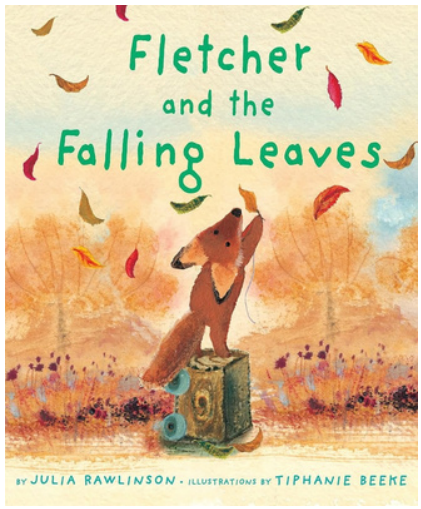

Pumpkin Jack by Will Hubbell tells the story of a boy named Tim and his jack-o'-lantern, Pumpkin Jack, as it changes and decays throughout the seasons. Tim learns the life cycle of a pumpkin when new pumpkins grow from the seeds Pumpkin Jack leaves behind.

If You Find a Leaf by Aimee Sicuro follows a child who discovers a beautiful autumn leaf and imagines all the creative things it could become. The story celebrates the beauty of fall, encouraging children to use their imagination and find joy in nature.

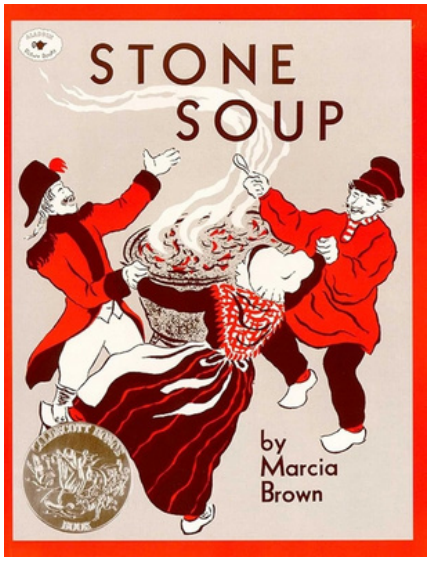

Fletcher and the Falling Leaves by Julia Rawlinson tells the story of a little fox who is worried when the leaves on his favorite tree begin to fall. As the seasons change, Fletcher learns that sometimes things must change, but new life and beauty will come again.

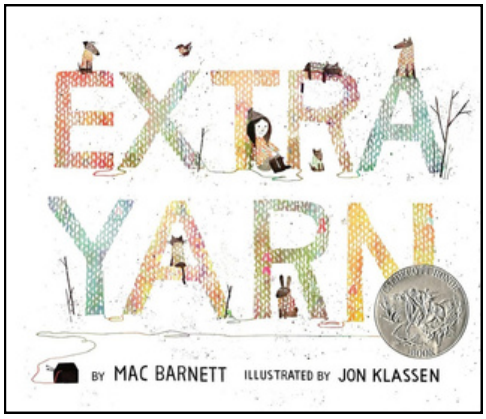

A Very Big Fall by Emmy Kastner follows three leaves as they experience the changes of autumn, watching the world around them transform as the season arrives. As they change into beautiful fall colors and eventually fall from their tree to the ground, they discover that change is a natural and exciting part of life.

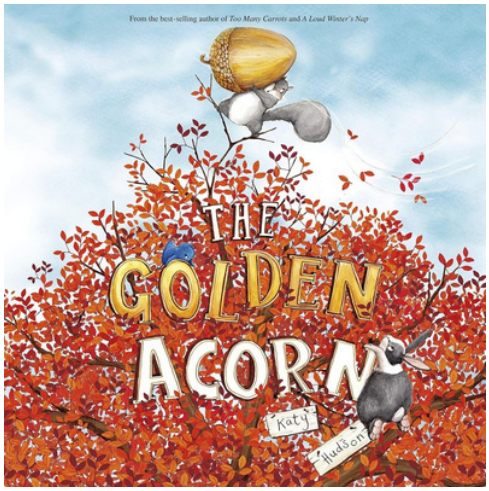

Stone Soup by Maria Brown tells the story of hungry travelers who arrive in a village and convince the villagers to help make a delicious soup using a simple stone. As everyone contributes an ingredient, the villagers discover that sharing and working together can create something wonderful for everyone to enjoy.

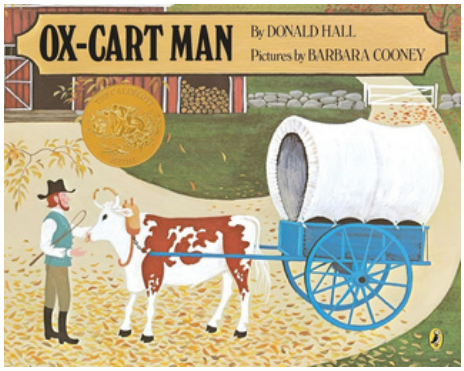

Extra Yarn by Mac Barnett tells the story of Annabelle, a girl who discovers a box filled with magical yarn that never seems to run out. She uses the yarn to knit warm, colorful clothes for her town, sharing her gifts with others until a greedy archduke tries to take the magical yarn for himself.

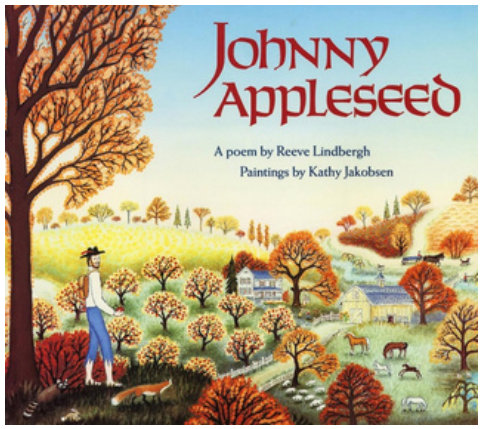

The Golden Acorn by Katy Hudson tells the story of a group of woodland animals who discover a special golden acorn and set out to find out who deserves it. Along the way, they learn that kindness, friendship, and helping others are more valuable than winning a prize.

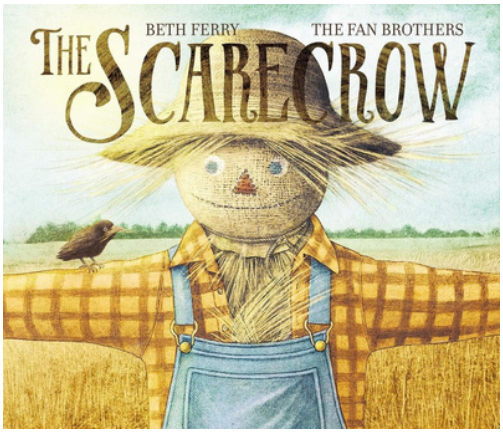

Ox-Cart Man by Donald Hall follows a farmer and his family as they spend the year growing crops, making goods, and preparing for winter. In the fall, the farmer takes everything he has made to market, sells it to buy the things his family needs, and returns home to begin the cycle again.

Johnny Appleseed by Reeve Lindbergh tells the story of Johnny Chapman, a kind and adventurous man who traveled across the country planting apple trees and sharing apple seeds with settlers. Through his travels and generosity, Johnny became known as Johnny Appleseed and left a lasting legacy of beauty and kindness.

The Scarecrow by Beth Ferry tells the story of a lonely scarecrow who cares for a frightened little crow and teaches him how to survive. Over time, the scarecrow and crow form a special friendship, showing that kindness and love can create lasting bonds.