Chapter Five: Life For God

1. Why do you think we tend to judge each other's relationship with God by how "effective" they seem to be, or have been?
2. What were your first thoughts about this chapter? Did you resonate with it? Were you challenged by it? Did you disagree with it?
3. Do you think you are "presently" living under this posture?
4. How can this posture cultivate fear?
5. Do you fear living a life of insignificance? Why?
6. How can a having a "relentless drive to prove your worth" become destructive? Has this happened in your own life?
7. What has God shown you, personally and specifically, through this chapter? Please be honest and unafraid to share the good, the bad, and the ugly!
