Reading The Bible For All Its Worth

November 4 & 11; 6:30–7:30 p.m. in FH 207

The Bible is full of stories we think we know, passages that challenge us, and words that take on new meaning in different seasons of life. Join us for a four-week Bible study as we explore four familiar biblical stories, looking beyond the interpretations we've often been taught to discover new layers of meaning and fresh insights. Along the way, we'll wrestle with passages and explore practical tools and strategies for reading Scripture with curiosity and finding meaning in its ancient words. Led by Grace Lindvall, Associate Minister of Education, and Cedric Lundy, Seminary Intern.
