

“Only 4% of American adults currently hold a biblical worldview.” George Barna

Pew Research: “In 2007, religious ‘nones’ made up just 16% of Americans ... today that number is 28% - the largest single people group in the U.S.”

“Religious ‘Nones’ are now the largest single group in the U.S., Jan 24, 2024, NPR, <https://www.npr.org/transcripts/1226371734>, Pew Research, “Religious ‘Nones’ in America: Who They Are and What They Believe,” Jan 24, 2024, <https://www.pewresearch.org/religion/2024/01/24/religious-nones-in-america-who-they-are-and-what-they-believe/>.

“Between 1700 and 1740, an estimated 75-80 percent of the population attended churches.”

2025 Cultural Research Center/AZ Christian University study (George Barna)

- The overwhelming majority of Americans have an incorrect view of sin
- The overwhelming majority of Americans have an incorrect view of the goodness of humanity
- 70% believe sin is a reality but believe people are “basically good at heart” and should not be characterized as sinners
- Only 49% of Integrated Disciples (those with the highest level of biblical alignment) are living out biblical convictions on marriage, family, and the sanctity of life
